Special fall series It's All About the People featuring owners, managers and employees from 2019 Employer of Choice Award winners, nominees, and participants in an open discussion facilitated by Phil Quigley about why their company is an exceptional place to work.

Key takeaways:

- Putting people first translates to business success
- Using team-based problem solving to address issues and enhance employee engagement
- Combining strong culture and clear strategy to provide direction and focus at all levels of the organization

Presenters: Jeremy Presta, President and CEO of Park Side Credit Union, has led the organization through substantial growth, both organically and through mergers since March 2002. Jeremy is a native of western Montana which gives him the ability to understand Park Side's membership needs and to change the strategic direction of the organization to meet those needs.

Josh Kroll, Vice President, Marketing, joined the Park Side team in June 2009, originally in operations. His visionary skills quickly led him to his current role. Josh's passion for his job has him on a constant quest to improve both the organization and himself.

Maureen Bryan, Senior Vice President, Human Resources & Staff Development, Park Side Credit Union, joined the company in September 2006, originally overseeing operations before transitioning to her current role in 2012. Maureen uses her dedication to helping others to assist Park Side employees reach their goals within the company.

Preview: Tune into the Good Morning Show with John Hendricks and Robin Mitchell on KGEZ AM 600 / FM 96.5 / KGEZ.com on September 17 in the 9 o'clock hour to hear Josh Kroll's & Maureen Bryan's ten-minute interview about Team-Based Problem Solving.
